INTERIOR

From the moment you step inside ALFA NERO, you will feel like you are a part of something extraordinary.

The yacht's impressive 1,250 square meters of living space is adorned with exquisite hardwoods, luxurious leathers, elegant fabrics, and precious metals, all contributing to this classic yet contemporary design.

Alberto Pinto's vision draws inspiration from pop art and Art Deco. His timeless base of monochrome is accented by seamlessly incorporating pops of coordinated colour, modern art, and intricate textures, brought to life throughout with the use of the finest materials from around the globe.

Major modern masters decorate the walls, fabrics have Matisse's highly stylised graphic leaf design, and Pop Art swirls, zig zags, dots and bubbles decorate the entire yacht. Zebrano and sycamore are alternatively planked to create striped floorboards. Macassar ebony is gloss-varnished to provide fabulously rich paneling; maple, birch, and anigre are woven into wall tapestries. Carpets, rugs, floors, armchairs, walls, seat backs, pillars - the result is an 82m gallery of interior design; it is quite possible to just sit back and be entertained by looking at the furniture and works of art.

ALFA NERO is a gallery that has to be seen to be believed. Instead of something as simple as paintings hung on a wall, here is an entire art installation from bow to stern.

This exceptional yacht has an aesthetic that is undeniably luxurious, remarkably timeless, and completely and utterly unique.

Main deck salon

Designers Nuvolari Lenard planned the main salon to excel in totally different ways.

From the salon to the pool deck is an area divided by two sets of glass doors, guests simply create the space fit for the occasion.

Open the first set of glass doors and the salon connects with the entrance area featuring armchairs with giant patterned fabrics and walls of gloss Macassar panels inserted with air bubble marquetry.

Open the second set of glass doors and connect straight to the pool deck to create a stunningly gargantuan entertainment space of almost 40m.

The salon itself is a sophisticated, cozy, contemporary lounge with a large plasma TV. Oversized sofas give a relaxed, casual atmosphere.

Main deck salon

Modern masters hang from the wenge wood panels in the main salon with the grand Pleyel piano finished in black lacquer and etched with an intricate white wave pattern.

Upper deck salon

ALFA NERO's interiors immediately impress with their blend of classic elegance and modern flair, with the full-beam upper salon offering a combination of light, colour, style, and space.

The floor has concentric stripes of Macassar and maple, walls have white, lacquered, dimpled paneling, and grand windows extend the entire length of the salon. Enormous, white sofas and radically designed tables and armchairs complete Alberto Pinto's vision, while vibrant post-modern artwork inject colour into this space.

Guests can mingle and relax here, enjoy the entertainment system and watch the latest film on a 65" screen or with the HD projector cinema setup, both with impressive surround-sound.

A wonderful space for guests to enjoy any time of day.

ACCOMMODATION

Twelve guests can be accommodated onboard ALFA NERO in six beautifully appointed cabins across three decks.

Each cabin offers guests a unique experience with individually-styled décor, meticulously designed with carefully coordinated colors and materials as well as striking artwork.

All accommodation decks can be accessed via a glass-enclosed guest elevator that glides from the lower to upper decks, passing tall, glowing, crystal sculptures and a leather mosaic lining the circular wrap-round stairwell.

ALFA NERO

Master suite

ALFA NERO's master suite occupies the entire forward aspect of the upper deck and is a private sanctuary with complete seclusion from the rest of the guest accommodation.

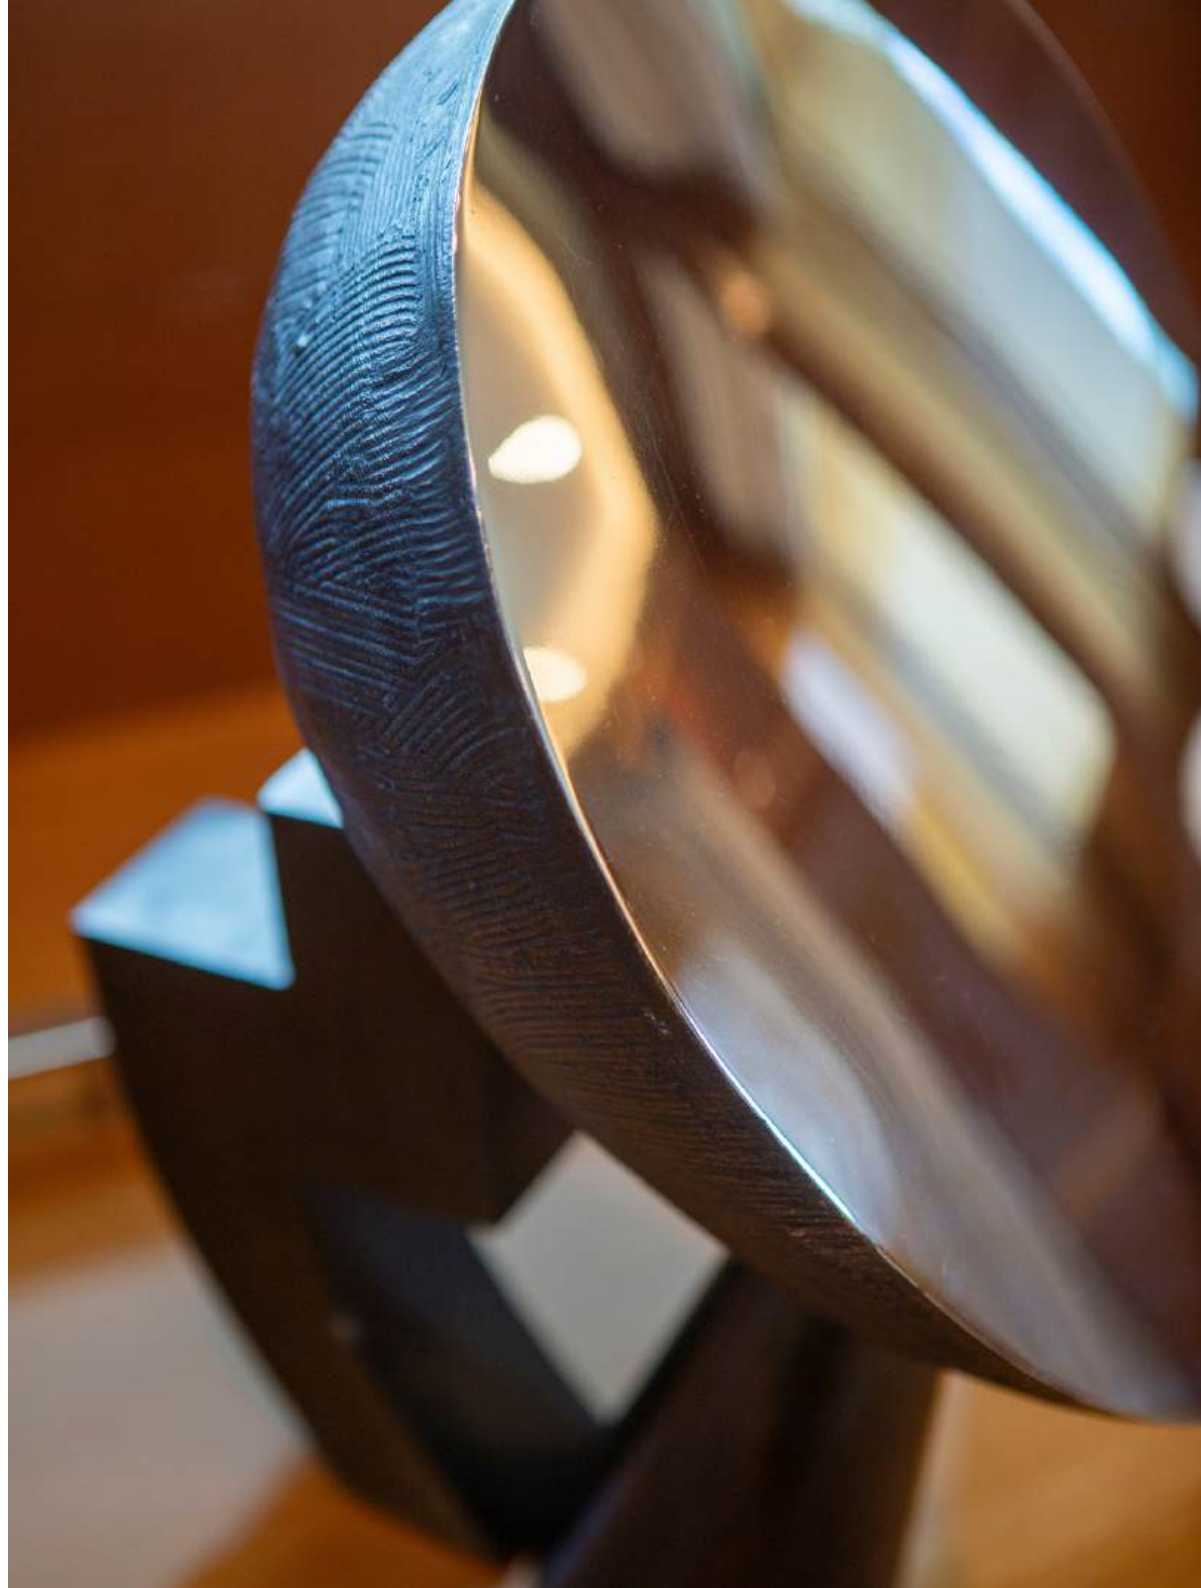

Inside the suite colours are pale, textures are subtle, and space is splendidly indulgent.

The king-size bed faces a 30" TV with surround-sound and guests can gaze across the seascape through a wall of windows. A beautifully crafted breakfast table, sofa, and an elegant chaise lounge are the only other pieces of furniture in this inner sanctum.

A pantograph door effortlessly opens from the bedroom to the outside terrace set out with a Jacuzzi pool, twin wing-shaped sunbeds, a dining table and curved sofas. A self-contained private world; not one single centimeter of the substantial master suite terrace is visible or accessible from any other part of the yacht.

Back inside the suite continues through a silver-embossed, lacewood architrave to a huge office. This room has its own entrance and can be closed off from the master suite completely, offering flexibility with guest sleeping arrangements as it could be converted into an additional double cabin with the use of the sofa bed.

Two grey-flannel marble and cherrywood bathrooms include a steam shower and Jacuzzi bath. A dressing room and several meters of immaculately arranged floor-to-ceiling wardrobes and a dressing table complete the suite.

Guest cabins

ALFA NERO'S remaining guest accommodation can be found across the main and lower decks.

Guest VIP suites and cabins are defined by coral patterns that run across everything from bedheads and counterpanes to cushions and lamps. The vibrant colours contrast with paneling made up of a latticework of maple, birch, and anigre.

On the main deck, the full-beam VIP suite has a walk-in wardrobe and lounge area - here too is a possible sofa bed arrangement ideal for families with little ones that they wish to keep nearby. His-and-hers ensuite bathrooms are thoughtfully planned to combine privacy with practicality offering both shower and bathtub facilities.

A further double cabin and two twin cabins that can convert into double bed arrangements as needed are found on this deck and feature intricately patterned, slate and marble bathrooms.

The lower deck has a VIP suite with direct access to a teak lobby that is home to the onboard spa and its wide, square balcony that unfolds over the sea. This cabin features a relaxing sofa - again with sofa bed functionality - and a generous ensuite with a bathtub and shower.

DINING

ALFA NERO's dining areas are as much about lifestyle as cuisine.

Guests can dine inside or on deck, formally or informally, as a group, a couple, en familles, or even host a huge banquet. The options are as wide as the requirements, "Whatever you want, wherever you want it"!

Cuisine onboard ALFA NERO revolves around exceptional gastronomy. Its esteemed chefs are masters – be it a beachside barbeque, a formal French sit-down dinner, or a full spread of locally-caught fish family-style, ALFA NERO offers it all.

Main deck dining room & annex

Midship on the main deck are two inter-connected rooms.

The first has an intimate table for four suitable for cocktails and canapes, as a children's table, or a game of cards after dinner, the second is the main dining room with a stunning long dining table seating the entire charter party.

Outside bulwarks on both the port and starboard side can fold down to provide infinite views through the floor-to-ceiling windows.

Windows, walls, and ceiling are divided by ebony panels inset with silver leaf squares and herringbone parquet flooring.

Main deck dining room & annex

Both tables are pop art spectacular with metallic circles set within the black lacquer.

Rich and lavish, this dining room creates a mood of elegant sophistication - a great meal about to unfold with stunning views in climate controlled comfort.

Inside-outside on the upper deck

Perfectly positioned between the upper deck aft terrace and salon, a circular table for up to ten guests provides a spectacular view through full height, fully retracting glazed doors.

The upper deck dining room can be opened to the warm evening air or closed and air-conditioned; an inside-outside space where guests can enjoy the best of both worlds.

Drift outside to relax on the white sofas of the exterior deck; here is the perfect place for sunset cocktails and canapes before dinner.

Inside-outside on the upper deck

The dramatic, dark, wenge floorboards and a circular table of the dining area contrast strikingly against white, lacquered, dimpled paneling and shell-patterned fabrics.

This elevated setting is simply stunning.

Alfresco on the pool deck

The pool deck has a wide bar, twin tables with umbrellas, and a huge U-shaped sofa and dining table - replete with lazy Susan - facing a 42" pop-up TV.

Here there is a BBQ and is popular for casual dining while enjoying the pool or keeping an eye on the kids.

With the pool raised the deck space can allow for a grander affair and a long dining table to be setup for dining under the stars, events, and special occasions.

EXTERIOR

ALFA NERO's sleek, instantly recognisable exterior, highlighted by a dramatic black steel hull and light superstructure, reflects the artistry of Nuvolari Lenard's design philosophy.

— This striking profile, with its low stern and minimal overhangs was a departure from conventional superyacht design, breaking the mold and setting a new standard for luxury yachts forever more.

For alfresco dining and socialising ALFA NERO's distinctive main deck "pool deck" is its coup de maître and offers one of the largest open aft decks available on any yacht. It was the first ever statement rear swimming pool onboard a yacht with revolutionary hydraulic technology meaning that it can be raised to transform into massive dancefloor or event space at the push of a button.

Two further decks are the upper deck and the bridge deck "gym deck", the highest point on the yacht.

The upper deck aft is perfect for cocktails and relaxation with two comfortable seating areas ideal for lounging and taking in the view before dining as it leads directly into the upper dining room.

The gym deck offers an exterior workout space as well as a refreshing post-workout dip in the Jacuzzi pool and of course direct access to the well-equipped air-conditioned gym.

Other exterior areas of note are the private master suite terrace on the forward aspect of the upper deck featuring its own Jacuzzi pool, sunpads and dining area. As well as the fold down sea terrace of the lower deck spa and beauty area.

The pool deck

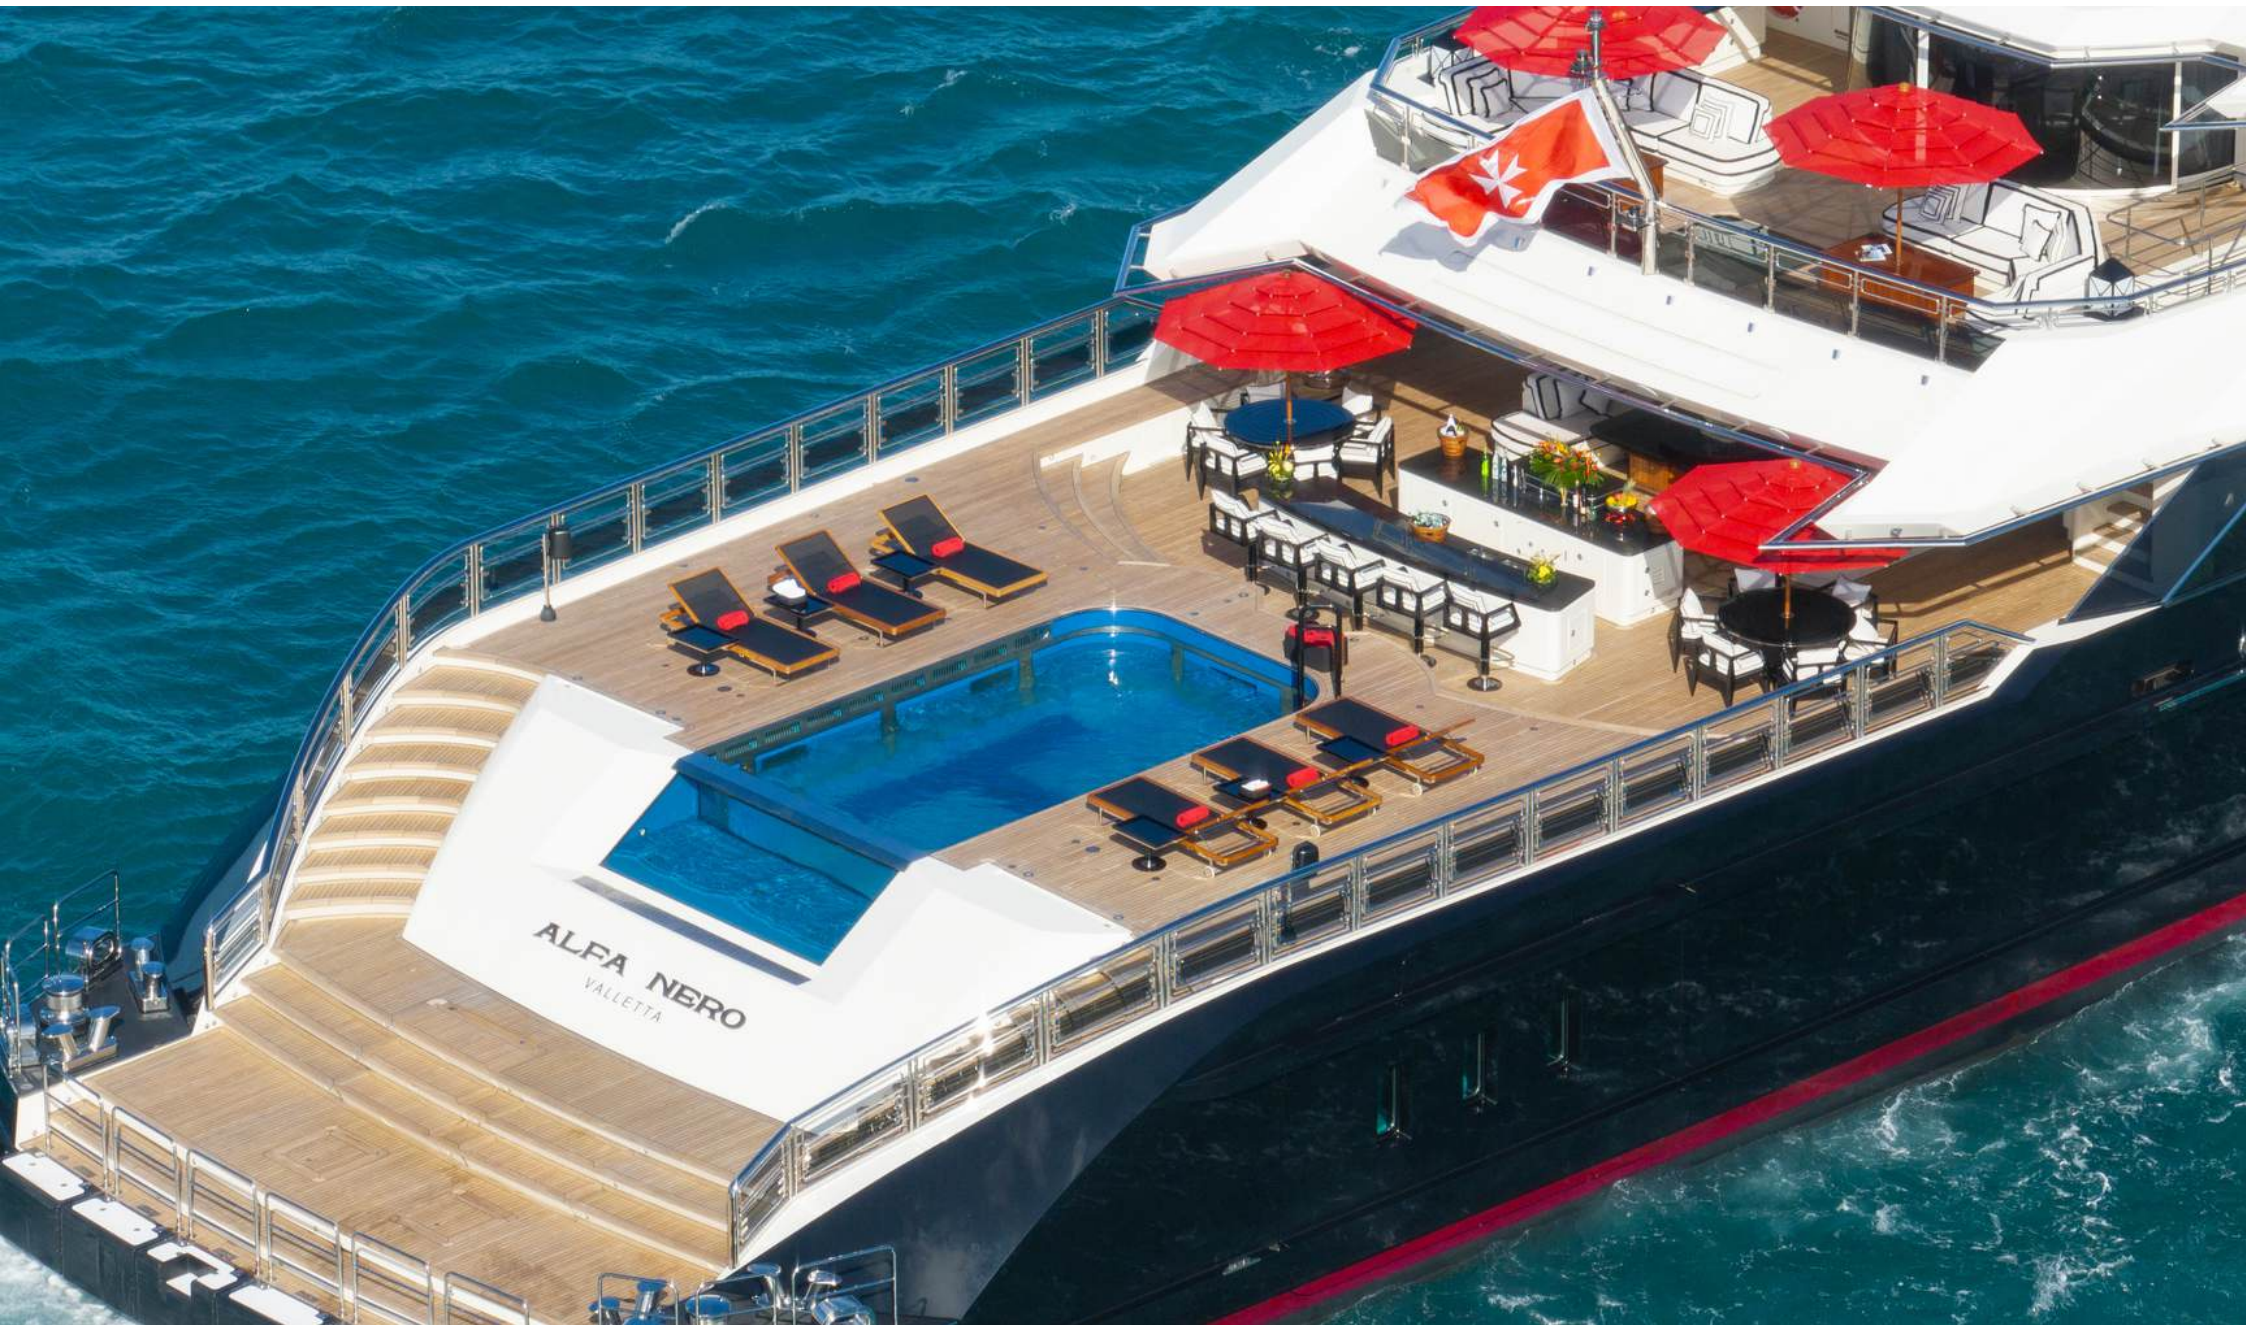

ALFA NERO's aft deck is like no other superyacht. Above nearly 300 square meters of deck space is the sky.

It has one of the largest open aft decks available for charter in the world.

Arriving by tender at the stern of the yacht, guests step aboard a full-width teak platform and are greeted by a waterfall from the infinity edge swimming pool.

Wide steps lead up to the iconic 7m water-jet pool and chic black sunbeds and lacquered side tables flank either side.

The pool deck

Forward, the shaded pool club has a wide bar, twin tables with umbrellas, and a huge U-shaped sofa and dining table - replete with lazy Susan - facing a 42" pop up TV. Nearby is a BBQ for the chef to prepare delicious cuisine.

Via revolutionary Oceanco engineering the pool can be risen to shallower depths suitable for children or completely flush with the aft deck, transforming the aft deck into a massive entertainment space, dancefloor, work-out and play area.

No helicopter operations are possible for charter, the helipad is for emergency use only.

The pool deck

ALFA NERO'S pool deck is perfect for enjoying stunning views, whether it's the lapping waves, a fiery sunset, or a star-studded night sky.

At night, the sub-lit pool and impressive sound system create an electric atmosphere, making the pool deck the ultimate venue for parties and celebrations.
